

岐阜経済大学

GIFU KEIZAI UNIVERSITY

Gifu Keizai University

Gifu Keizai University was founded in 1967 in the city of Ogaki in Gifu Prefecture in response to strong demands from, and with the active support of, the local government, educational sector and business community. Now, over forty years later, the University encompasses two faculties, four departments and a graduate school, offering courses in Business Administration Information Sciences and Welfare Policy, in addition to a Japanese language program for international students. In accordance with Gifu Keizai University's mission to foster the development of capable, contributing members of society, Gifu Keizai University offers a broad range of options for both education and research. Today, almost 23,000 graduates in Japan can attest to the flexible and open-minded academic tradition and to the beautiful natural surroundings of the University campus. Gifu Keizai University now actively recruits international students, and offers a variety of study programs, including a one-year Japanese language course, a four-year undergraduate program, and a two-year graduate program. Gifu Keizai University welcomes all enthusiastic and motivated international students

History

- April 1967 University opens (Department of Economics, Faculty of Economics)
- April 1986 Department of Industrial Business Administration opens within the Faculty of Economics
- April 1994 Faculty of Business Administration (Department of Strategic Management and Business Policy, Department of Administrative Information Sciences)
- April 2000 Faculty of Economics opens Department of Welfare Policy and Community Studies
- April 2001 Graduate School of Business Administration (Master's Program)
- April 2006 Department of Sports Management opens within the Faculty of Business Administration

The city of Ogaki in Gifu Prefecture, Japan - location of Gifu Keizai University

The city of Ogaki - home to Gifu Keizai University - is located in Gifu Prefecture, in the middle of Japan between the large urban centers of Nagoya and Kyoto. Ogaki has a population of around 150,000, with manufacturing as the main industry, complemented by the growing production of computer software in more recent years. Nestled near the Japan Alps, Gifu Prefecture has one of the most attractive natural environments in Japan, and is well-balanced between economic development and protection of these natural surroundings. The area is thus particularly inspiring to the students of the University.

1917-2017

100th Anniversary
Shanghai University of Finance and Economics

上海财经大学 100周年校庆